FOREWORD

.... On our pathways through life

On our pathways through life, we pause momentarily to reflect on our past years at Chicago Teachers College. Our road has led through a series of classes, exams, book sales, assemblies, Theatre Workshop productions, concerts, bake sales, athletic game and tournamnts, homecomings, the certification exam, and now, commencement.

In these years at C.T.C., we have prepared for a career of teaching. Only through our experiences in the classroom can we realize how much our instructors have trained us for our jobs in Chicago's schools.

We look back with an attitude of achievement, satisfaction and with more than a little regret. Perhaps EMBLEM will serve to illustrate the memories that marked our pathways through C.T.C.

The faculty and students of Chicago Teachers College regret the untimely death of their fellow member and instructor, Norman A. Goldsmith. His contributions to the college exceed those expected in so short a time as his two and one half years at the College. He will long be remembered as a mathematics instructor, sponsor of Kappa Mu Epsilon, secretary of the graduate committee and humorous poet.

NORMAN A. GOLDSMITH

DEDICATION

Chicago Teachers College has lost two of its faculty members through death in the past year. Both have contributed much to us in their fields of mathematics and natural science. It is to the memory of these two beloved instructors that we dedicate this, the 1957 EMBLEM

RALPH C. GOODE

In 1938, Ralph C. Goode came to Chicago Teachers College as a physician and science instructor. After nineteen years of service to our school, Dr. Goode was to have retired this June. But on Easter morning Dr. Goode died after only a few days' illness. He had reached the age of sixty-five less than a month before.

MARK McFADDEN

In our procession at commencement, no matter how closely we follow one another, there will be an empty space in our ranks. That place would have been filled by Mark McFadden had he not passed away in October. Many of us remember him in the business education curriculum.

ADMINISTRATION

RAYMOND M. COOK.

THE DEAN'S MESSAGE

This is the tenth issue of EMBLEM for which I am writing some message as dean of the College. I find that inspiration falters for an entirely new approach. So I return to a well-worn theme, my intense pride in the faculty, the students, and the graduates of Chicago Teachers College.

Today I am proud because of the high MORALE of the school. And on what does high morale depend? It depends on our belief in our task, in the feeling that teacher education is worthy of our energies. We have that.

It depends on agreement on our goals, and the clear definition of those goals. We are achieving that.

It depends on our confidence in our own ability to reach these goals. We have that.

It depends on our confidence in our colleagues, in their performance of their part of the task. We have that.

It depends on a sense of achievement in one's work; on recognition by others that one's work has been well done; on a sense of growth, a feeling that one is more competent today than he was yesterday; and on a feeling of belonging, of membership in a valued group.

No school can lay claim to being great, or excellent, or even good, unless it has high morale. For the splendid contribution the class of 1957 has made to high morale in the Chicago Teachers College, I am grateful. I congratulate this class, and I predict great things for it.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

We may continue our education after earning our bachelor's degrees in the Graduate School. Master's degrees are offered in Industrial Education, School Librarianship, teaching of Biology and General Science, teaching of the Mentally Handicapped, teaching of the Blind, teaching of the Deaf and Partially Hearing, and in the teaching of the Partially Seeing. David Kopel is the director of the Graduate School.

LIBRARIES

Students learn in psychology and education courses how to use the libraries. But only through experience can the student learn that ours is one of the most well-equipped libraries of its size. Fritz Veit, director of Libraries, coordinates an audio-visual center, a circulation department, a materials center, a periodical department, a reference department and a reserve room.

EDUCATION

It is in education classes that our philosophies are shattered, or at least shaken. Through these courses we learn of various trends in educational theories; we learn to regard teaching as a profession, not just a job. With the guidance of our instructors, we organize and advance our own theories and teaching practices. Only then can we truly evaluate our teaching techniques.

"With Thoughtful Minds and Laughing Hearts"

The things taught in schools and colleges are not an education but the means of education." — R. W. Emerson.

STUDENT TEACHING

"The foundation of every state is the education of its youth." — Diogenes

"Teaching Not Only Facts but a Way of Life"

After collecting much knowledge, advice and teaching aids in our education and methods courses, we prepare for a semester of practice teaching. Student teaching is perhaps the most important experience that a prospective teacher can obtain. Under the guidance of a counselor and critic teachers, we have an opportunity to apply the knowledge we have gained about the philosophy and techniques of teaching in a real classroom situation.

With the extension and enrichment of teaching experience, confidence and professional growth are achieved through preparation for our roles as competent teachers.

ENGLISH

Henrietta M. McMillan, chairman

The Department of English, having the largest staff of instructors in the college, offers a variety of courses to aid us in our education. Courses in composition and literature provide a broad background for our general knowledge. Courses in children's literature and language arts help us prepare for our careers as teachers.

SPEECH

The speech instructors help us correct our poor speech habits and develop proper classroom speech. Besides the initial course in the freshman year, we are offered several electives to help our speech techniques. Under the guidance of Robert J. Walker, students may take courses in stage practice and help with Theatre Workshop productions.

NATURAL SCIENCE

Hardly a semester goes by that we don't take a course in either natural or physical science, for this department provides a variety of courses for the interest of all students. As teachers we must have a background in all branches of science including anatomy, astronomy, botany, chemistry, geology, meteorology, microbiology, physics, physiology, and zoology. These instructors give this background plus the methods of teaching science.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

"All teachers are social studies teachers." Therefore, in our preparation, we take several courses in this subject. Under the direction of our instructors, we map our representative districts, interview our senator, construct salt and flour maps and learn how to instruct our pupils to do the same. The several electives in this department help us to specialize in our favorite branch of the social sciences.

MUSIC

One of the most pleasant hours of the day is the time spent listening to music in one of our music courses. The times we had to teach a song or lead in the singing of our National Anthem were sometimes funny, sometimes embarrassing. We have opportunities to display our talents under the direction of these instructors in Choir and Phi Alpha.

HOME MECHANICS

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION

Men in the industrial education curriculum spend one year at Chicago Vocational School learning shop skills and classroom procedure. They may minor in such subjects as automotive shop, electricity, graphic arts, metal shop and woodworking. By these experiences they prepare to teach shop courses in the public high school.

KINDERGARTEN-PRIMARY

Requirements for women entering the kindergarten-primary curriculum are few but exclusive. Girls must have a practical background of music and must love young children. Under the guidance of these instructors, we prepare to teach children in kindergarten and the first three grades.

PSYCHOLOGY

As teachers we must try to understand the child's mind and its development. BUSINESS EDUCATION

Dorothy A. Eggebrecht, chairman

The youngest department and curriculum in Chicago Teachers College is the Department of Business Education. Having graduated it's first students in January, 1957, this department now feels it is part of the school. Under the guidance of these instructors, we learn to teach high school subjects of accounting, bookkeeping, business law, shorthand and typing.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

As teachers we must realize that children must develop sound bodies as well as sound minds. SENIOR MESSAGE

We, the graduating classes of 1957, are now at the long awaited graduation time. We are not, as it has been thought and said, at the end of our journey, but just at a fork in the road.

We have traveled together for four interesting years. We have weathered registration, finals, student teaching, and a certification exam. We have basked in the light of sports, concerts, plays, homecoming, and the senior dinner dance.

Through the past four years we have trod the slush, we've waded to Botany come rain and sleet, and we've danced twinkle-toed (?) in physical education 112 and 113.

What if the road was a little rough at times? This only served to deepen our appreciation of fellow classmates, a helpful faculty, and ever-willing and able librarians, who allowed us to stay until the last light was dimmed.

And here we are at the end — graduation. The climax, the acme, the culmination of four years of struggle. But is this the end? No, it cannot be, for we still go on; but we now go separate ways — yes — it's only a fork in the road.

SENIORS

BEHIND THE SCENES

SENIOR DINNER DANCE

Two culminating activities of the senior classes are the senior dinner dance and the Commencement ceremonies. Only through the energetic efforts of the class members and its sponsors can these occasions be memorable events. We will long remember these festive evenings as the two-part climax of our college years.

ACTIVITIES

STUDENT COUNCIL

Student Council represents all the student groups at the College. Each class and club elects one representative and one alternate to serve on the council.

The Student Council coordinates activities of the student body. It sponsors the Annual Homecoming Dance, Camp Workshop, Incoming Student Orientation, Freshman Fall Frolic, Honors Convocation and the Student Handbook.

The council conducts all school elections; it appropriates council funds to help finance club activities.

TEMPO

Many are the Fridays that the TEMPO staff has worked late to publish our college newspaper. Sponsored by Irwin J. Suloway, TEMPO has been called the Voice of C.T.C.

The editors have been William McKillop in the fall and Gene O'Donnell and Dorothea Stein in the spring.

At its semesterly banquet, the new TEMPO staff is announced; pins are awarded to members who have served on the staff for three semesters.

Rho Sigma Tau is an honorary journalism fraternity for persons with a common experience in journalism.

R.S.T. sponsors outside speakers to talk to its members on both school journalism and daily newspapers.

R.S.T., in collaboration with TEMPO, sponsors a semesterly banquet and an annual spring outing. Irwin J. Suloway is the sponsor.

After several false starts, the Great Books club finally organized under the guidance of Robert Roth. The club is open to all students who are interested in reading and discussing the great books.

Members read certain writings of the immortal authors, then discuss them at the meetings of the organization. Its purpose is to help students understand these writings through group discussion.

THEATRE WORKSHOP

"Curtain going up!"

Once a semester, Theatre Workshop, under the direction of Robert J. Walker, presents a play. The past year, T.W. staged SABRINA FAIR by Samuel Taylor and SAINT JOAN by George Bernard Shaw. Sandra Evans played the title role in the former; Su Boyle and Pat Killoran shared the lead in the latter. T.W. also sponsored a Jazz Benefit Concert performed by the Ramsey Lewis Trio.

Cast and crew members are rewarded for their efforts at semesterly banquets. T.W. also sponsors frequent theatre parties to the latest shows down town.

CHOIR

"With a song in their hearts"

The Choir is an enthusiastic and responsive group under the able direction of Leonard J. Simutis. Among the year's activities the choir presents a Christmas program, carols in the halls at Christmastime and participated in commencement exercises. Choir members always take time out from their busy season to attend the annual spring banquet.

PHI ALPHA

Chicago Teachers College's music organization, Phi Alpha, is sponsored by Katherine Taheny. Every spring, Phi Alpha sponsors a concert in which students perform. The purpose of this program is to provide talented students with an opportunity to perform before an audience in a professional manner. Phi Alpha also sponsors the annual Rose Day every March. Members sell ribbon roses in school for charity. In conjunction with the Choir, Phi Alpha holds an annual banquet in the spring.

PRACTICAL ARTS CLUB

Every student in the school is invited to join the Practical Arts club in its meetings the third Tuesday of each month. It was just organized in the past year under the sponsorship of Edmund Crosby.

The purpose of the club is to provide the interested student with the opportunity to develop a constructive hobby in the field of practical arts.

EPSILON PI TAU

Epsilon Pi Tau, Chicago Teachers College's oldest honorary fraternity, is the only chapter of the national organization in Chicago. It is open to all qualified students in the Industrial Education curriculum and the Home Mechanics sequence. New members are initiated every year and are welcomed at a banquet. E.P.T. also sponsors an annual open house at which handicrafts are demonstrated.

PSYCHOLOGY CLUB

The goal of the Psychology club is to broaden the students' interest in various aspects of psychology. To stimulate their interest the club has sponsored field trips to Dixon State hospital and to the Louis Levinson Clinic for retarded children.

The Business Education club is organized to promote a more genuine interest in teaching business in all areas of business and to afford opportunities for social contact among students of that curriculum.

The club takes semestery field trips to commercial enterprises to obtain practical knowledge and background for teaching business.

F. A. E. A.

The Future Art Educators Association is one of the most recently organized groups at Chicago Teachers College. It is open to all students who plan to teach elementary school or art at any level.

F.A.E.A. conducts tours through museums, galleries and studios; sponsors demonstrations, lectures, movies and exhibits. C.T.C. Art Workshop is under the supervision of F.A.E.A.

PHI PI SIGMA

Phi Pi Sigma are the Greek initials standing for the words meaning Physical Education Society. Membership to this fraternity is open to students in the physical education sequence.

Its purpose is to unite the physical education minor students, to develop a greater professional interest in their subject. Through its activities, Phi Pi Sigma helps to promote better social and professional relations among the alumni, faculty and students.

BIOLOGICAL SCIENCE CLUB

All interested students are invited to join the Biological Science club of Chicago Teachers College. Sponsored by Herbert Lamp, it presents lectures, movies, demonstrations, discussions and excursions. The Bi. Sci. club meets the first Tuesday of every month.

In the past year, the Bi Sci. club was invited to join Beta Beta Beta, the national biological science fraternity.

The Social Science club, under the guidance of Joseph Chada, seeks to acquaint its members with the social and political aspects of other countries as well as those of our own nation. Students, instructors and person from outside the college have lectured during the past year on such subjects as Sweden, England and France.

TENNIS TEAM

All girls that are interested in tennis are invited to join the squad. Coached by Dorothy Kozeluh, the girls compete in tournaments against girls from other nearby colleges. This past year our squad practiced under adverse conditions. Since the school tennis courts were in such poor repair they had to practice in Hamilton Park. Players are rewarded at the Awards' Banquet of the Women's Athletic Association.

Officers

The Men's Athletic Association is open to all male students of Chicago Teachers College. Baseball, basketball, chess, football, golf and swimming are the intramural sports sponsored by M.A.A.

Winners of each tournament are awarded individual trophies at the semesterly M.A.A. luncheon. During the past year, the "Mary Owens" team captured every major championship. George Boyle, physical education chairman, sponsors M.A.A.

All's in fun.

W. A. A.

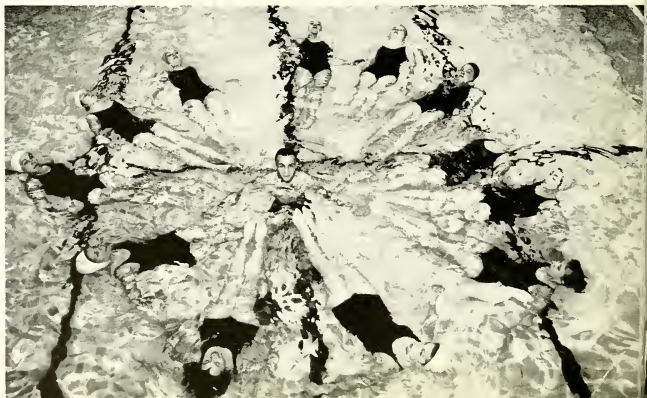

All Freshman girls automatically become members of the Women's Athletic Association and are welcomed at the Freshman Tea. The organization sponsors such activities as softball, swimming, tennis, and volleyball; faculty advisor for the past year was Ursula Blitzner, of the physical education department.

W.A.A. also sponsors two semesterly events, an All-School Tea and the Awards Banquet. Letters and pins are awarded to girls for athletic achievements at the Banquet.

TRITONS

All students who are interested in synchronized swimming are invited to join the Tritons. New members are chosen after they have performed before a committee of Tritons. Under the direction of Ursula Blitzner, this group presents a swim show every spring. Water ballet and synchronized swimming are featured at these performances.

They cheer to victory.

CHEERLEADERS

Spirit is the key word of our cheerleading group. Every year, both men and women are invited to try out for the squad. They are chosen for their appearance and cheering ability.

The school supplies the cheerleaders' uniforms as well as the awards earned by the qualified members of the squad.

Cheerleaders sponsor the annual pep assembly that opens the Colonel's basketball season.
